

This Jungle Jive book character lives in large group called a pride. The male can be heard from up to five miles away! This helps them find others like themselves, as well as proclaim their territory.

This Jungle Jive book character is often thought of as dirty, but actually they are very clean. They build their burrows with specific areas for storing food and getting sleep. They'll even designate a separate area for their restroom!

This Jungle Jive book character has superb navigational skills and an excellent memory. Their senses are extraordinary when it comes to smell, sight, and hearing; so good, they can smell food from miles away!

This Jungle Jive book character loves to eat insects. They've been known to eat 1,000 insects in one day! They use their eyes to help them swallow. When they blink, their eyes press into their mouths, moving the food down their throats.

This Jungle Jive book character, when in a group, is called a dazzle. Their stripes form a pattern unique to each animal. In large groups, the distinct stripes merge into a big mass and make it hard for predators to single out individual animals.

This Jungle Jive book character can jump a distance of up to 20 feet. They have long, muscular hind legs and short front legs that work together to aid in leaping.