I've Got It!

No one spoke out, though they felt so abused,
This lack of response left Ms. Lilly confused.
“They need to stand up,” Lilly thought to herself,
“Because actions like these could endanger one’s health.”

Lilly heard footsteps approach from the hall,
It was Ellen, the owner, to make a quick call.
She phoned a close friend to find out how to make,
An extravagant, double-tiered, butter cream cake.

She tidied the kitchen while rushing around,
Then made out her list, before heading to town.
As Ellen drove off, you could hear rants and raves,
About Mookie MaGee and the way he behaves.

“It’s absurd!” Chubby Cheddar cried out in distress,
“That we’re allowing this bully to create all this stress.
We promise each time, to make ‘that time’ the last,
Then our confidence fades, and the moment flies past.”

Rounding the corner while stretching his legs,
Young Eddie declared, “I can speak for the eggs.
We rally with honor and know what to do,
But when Mookie appears, we just don’t follow through.”

After watching this household dilemma unfold,
Ms. Lilly decided to take some control.
She worked out a plan that would surely reflect,
The importance of giving and receiving respect.
