I've Got It!

Humming a tune and lit up with a smile,
Ellen returned to her recipe file.
She measured each morsel and stirred with delight,
To create an exciting surprise for the night.

While Ellen got changed and was fixing her hair,
Mook, once again, started blowing hot air.
But the thrill would be cut from his normal routine,
When Calista Van Cakenfrost entered the scene!

Everyone stared with their mouths open wide,
As this mesmerizing marvel began speaking her mind.
“Tell me why, Mook MaGee, that you always prefer,
To make others feel bad, when that need not occur?”

“I've witnessed myself what goes on around here,
And have come to believe that the cause may be fear.
My magnificent beauty is not from a dream,
I was made by you all, not by one . . . but a team.”

Calista then turned with a word of advice,
“To allow disrespect always comes with a price.
If you want to be treated with kindness and care,
Then you must take a stance, when you're treated unfair.”

The silence that followed Calista's remark,
Had signaled Ms. Lilly her need to embark.
She grabbed for the satchel she cherished and praised,
Filled with the glow to grant hope in new ways.
