Activity:

Gather the children in a circle and read The Toy Store. After the reading, discuss the meaning of sharing. Explain how someone can improve a bad situation by sharing their feelings in an appropriate manner. Then have students dress up and act out the scenarios - one at a time. The teacher should read the scenario aloud, while the students are acting. After everyone has watched the "play", discuss the questions written for each scenario. Share opinions and try to figure out the best way to handle each conflict.

Assessment:

Students will remain calm while appropriately expressing their feelings to resolve a conflict.
