

Though Lilly was silent, the room was alive.
Bellamy was singing to an old forty-five.

Mixing her colors
and dancing around,
While others were busy,
getting things off the ground.